PERUVIAN SIRUP. Solution of Protoxide of Iron, Having success u'ly nassed the ordeal to which new discoveries in the Mareri Medica are subjected, must now be received as an estab-lished medicine.

ITS EFFICACY IN CURING DYSPEPSIA. fections of the Liver, Propsy, Neu-ralgia, Bronchitis and Consump-tive Tendencies, Disordered State of the Blood, Boils,

Scurvy, the prostrating GENERAL DEBILITY nd all Diseases which require a TONIC AND ALTERATIVE MEDICINE,

The proofs of its efficacy are so numerous, so well authenticated, and of such peculiar character, that sufferers can not reasonably hesitate to receive the proflered aid.

The Peruvian Sirup does not profess to be a cure-all, but its range is extensive, because many diseases, spparently unlike, are intimately related, and proceeding from one cause, may be cured by one remedy.

The class of diseases for which the Sirup provides a cure, is precisely that which has so often baffied the highest order of medical skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses a cessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Sirup incontrovertible.

Those who may wish for an opinion from disinterested persons re pecting the character of the Sirup, can not fail to be satisfied with the following, among numerous testimonials, in the hands of the Agents. The signatures are those of gentlemen well known in the community, and of the highest respectability. IS BEYOND QUESTION.

The undersigned having experienced the beneficial effects of the "Peruvian Sirup," do not hesitate to recommend it to the attention of the public.

From our own experience, as well as from the testimony of others, whose intelligence and integrity are altogether unquestionable, we have no doubt of its efficacy in cases apr3.

William Barbee, an old and highly esteemed citizen of Lafayette, was lying at the point of death last Mouday evening, from an attack of inflammation of the lungs.

The Europa brings intelligence of the death of the celebrated Robert Owen, in his Söth year.

Mr. Owen's name was ideutified with sundry reformatory movements. He proposed to reconstruct society, projected a variety of measures for the elevation of philanthropist. He was born in Wales, in 1771; made his mark as a bright scholar, in his native town, at the early age of least of the Supreme Court, called the Occasion and the Dred Scott Case. It is made the occasion and the preparence of the Democratic party to gather fresh fuel for the treasonable watch fires which surround the camp of Abolitionism. Some say it affects the people of a Territory prior to the formation of a State government in one way, and some in another. What matters it what the principles of that decision are? There is no court higher than the one which made it, to which the Abolitionists can take an appeal, and I know of one else who desires its reversal. Our fathers made the constitution, and they made the Supreme Court to determine its powers; and with that determination the American people must abide until cause for revolution is given. We hold all our rights here in obedience to the constitution as construed by that dience to the constitution as construed by that Court, and it is enough for me to know that all other citizens of this government wherever they may be, have the same measure meted out to them. I will not discuss before a popular assemblage, the principles which have been passed upon, and settled by a court of last resort. I will announce to you, however, what the Dred Scott decision settles, as I have read and understood it :

First. That a negro is not a citizen of the United States, and Second. That the Southern man has exactly

I say this is right. The President will recommend a Revenue Tariff, on the basis of ad valorems, suggesting that a departure from it may be necessary in special cases. The Democrats will not permit any change during the approaching session of Congress.

Estimates for next year's expenditures will not requires a meither sense nor patriotism to oppose with blind stubbornness, whatever others may $1,000,000 from those of last year. So says Secretary Cobb, who holds back the remaining $10,000,000 of the last loan, as a reserve for expected demands upon the Treasury, but he may advertise for proposals before January. He holds $1,000,000 of Treasury notes to reissue. The remainder has been absorbed for investments.

TAX FOR REVENUE. The SPEAKER announced the special order. rie SPEARER announced the special order, viz: The consideration of Mr. Edwards' resolution, declaring the expediency of a loan of money for State purposes, to be paid out of assessments of taxes based upon a just appraisement of real estate, and to be divided between several years, commencing with the year 1859—the question being on the adoption of Mr. Martin's substitute, declaring it to be the first duty of this Legislature to pass a revenue bill for the year 1858— Mr. TURPIE took the floor, and insisted on prompt action in the matter of paying the n ed ful revenue. He regretted that no committee had reported their plan to begin this work. There was no difficulty about the tax receipts already given. A receipt was good only up to the time of its date. He saw no great difficulty in the way of its date. He saw no great difficulty in the way of making a levy for this year, and believed there was yet time enough, if it were well improved. No man thought of paying the January instalment of interest by tax collections. But the levy would put us on the vantage ground as borrowers. It was to gain time for the payment of the State debt by instalments, that he desired to begin now. He stopped not to inquire whether the levy could be paid. It was no argument against the levy to say it would not be paid. The bill authorizing the levy could be matured, signed and published in ten days. He scouted the idea of being affected on this question by those skyev influences upon in ten days. He scouted the idea of being affected on this question by those skyey influences upon which depend the crops of the farmer. It was said we should wait for thereport of the Committee on Ways and Means. What light could they give? Certain members had attempted yesterday to enlighten the House, and their effort was little worse or better than to make the surrounding darkness visible. The committee ought to have reported long ago. Only yesterday the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means had shown by the introduction of a bill, that his mind was more occupied with that magnificent farce, the election of United States Senators, than with this question of revenue.

darkness visible. The committee ought to have reported long ago. Mr. BLYTHE introduced a bill (No. 38) legalizing the acknowledgments of all deeds, mortgages and other instruments of writing required to be recorded and certified by the Clerks of the Circuit and Common Pleas Courts, after the reception of the Revised Statutes of 1852, in their respective counties, which was passed the first reading.

EIGHTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT.

Mr. RYNEARSON preferred to be guided by the report of the Auditor. He read from the numbers, as fitteen cents on the hundred dollars, the collection would be a very easy job. If we defer the evil day one year we may defer it ten years as well. He preferred to meet the difficulty at the threshold. All the objections to the levy dwindled into nothing when compared with the greater evil of an increase of the public debt.

Mr. PARRETT was in favor of levying for a portion of the amount necessary. If we do nothing now, in 1860 we will have to collect a million and a half of dollars. He regarded the estimates of the gentleman from Jefferson as half too small. He was hardly satisfied that the inequality in appraisements were as great as gentlemen pretended. It might be true with regard to a tew counties; but his researches had convinced him that the value of property had increased rapidly were assessed, and this fact lessans the weight and force of the argument of inequality. He wanted the State debt extinguished instead of being increased in 1860; and he would make a levy for 1858 sufficient to meet the revenue demanded for this year.
